CASE STUDY

Hamptons Happiness in Everton Park

A modern and charming Hamptons style painting project in Brisbane's Everton Park, Intercoat jumped on board as the paint professionals to provide a quality paint job and exceptional customer service.

Two newly built houses in Everton Park required a full-service painters; including using a specialty finish on the stairs, exterior painting, feature door colours, and deck finishing.

A beautiful neutral colour scheme featuring pops of colour was used to modernise each home and hit that on-trend Hamptons feel. The cool, fresh colour scheme makes for a more open space feel to the internal area. Our team also provided specialist coatings, expert application, and quality painting that will last.

Intercoat collaborated with the client and got work on what we do best – quality painting. Our team use tried and tested processes to ensure that we deliver the highest quality finish as efficiently as possible. We are also experts in working with other on-site trades to ensure that the client's vision is executed to perfection.

Intercoat Painting approaches every painting project with the end client in mind, and we have developed our processes accordingly. We apply each coat of paint to all substrates in one application, rather than taking a stop/start approach that leaves a patchy and uneven finish.

We also insist on applying the final coat of paint once other trades are finished, as the last task before handover. This allows other trades to work unimpeded by concerns about damaging the paint and guarantees a seamless finish with fewer defects.

We put communication at the forefront of our work with our clients. Open communication means we can plan thoroughly to make sure a paint job runs smoothly from choosing the right colour to the perfect finish. Our process makes for an effortless experience for clients who can trust in our expertise to get quality finishes with each and every project.

We put the quality of the paint at the heart of the project, without compromising your time and costs.

Our emphasis on communication and planning, our tried and tested process for perfection, and our overall expertise and enthusiasm for delivering quality painting finishes, Intercoat were able to provide this client with two fully serviced Hampton style houses to be the envy of the suburb.

Intercoat are the professional paint experts of Brisbane and we're here to help you with your next residential or commercial painting project.
